

River Management Training Symposium

Restoring Rivers for a Resilient Future

APRIL 8-10, 2025 | ASHLAND, OREGON

Dear River Colleagues,

Join us for a week of technical training and peer learning in the immediate aftermath of the largest dam removal in US history! Restoring free flow to nearly 300 miles of the Klamath River will provide a unique backdrop for sharing strategies and techniques that are restoring and rehabilitating watersheds and their communities across the country. In addition to the historic work on the Klamath, we look forward to learning how groups are applying skills related to river flow, water quality and experiences where you live and work.

Experts from across the country - river managers, rangers, outfitters, water trail leaders, scientists, and students alike - will share how they are evolving multidisciplinary, collaborative approaches to address overuse, floods, fires, pollution, erosion, and development. We are confident that you will gain new insights and practical tools you can apply to reset your rivers' ecological integrity and biodiversity, re-establish connections between their communities and ecosystems, and renew their long-term vitality.

We cannot do this alone. Sponsoring the 2025 River Management Training Symposium is a simple and rewarding way to be a part of our future while building relationships with river leaders nationwide. Let's discuss how we can provide a unique opportunity to promote your organization, services, or products! Please contact me at (301) 585-4677 or executivedirector@river-management.org with questions or suggestions. We can't wait to see you in Ashland!

"Sponsoring the 2023 RMS Symposium was very valuable for our staff, many attending for the first time. Beyond the benefits of meeting and learning from peers from across the country, RMS memberships continue to offer terrific resources to our river managers."
